THE VIRGINIA SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF

FOREWORD

The human mind is a complex creation, capable of being a valuable bridge for success or a black labyrinth which will serve only to hinder and confuse. The critical factor is the skill of the craftsmen who determine the architecture of knowledge.

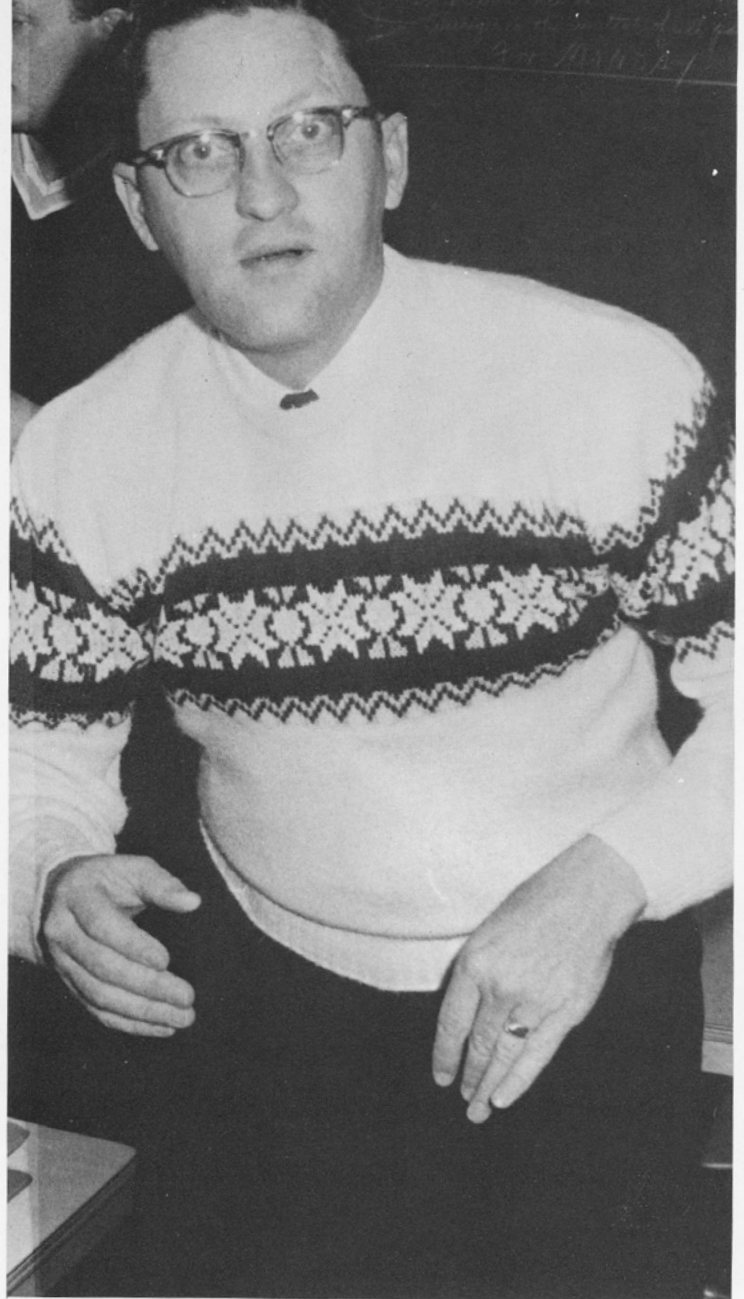

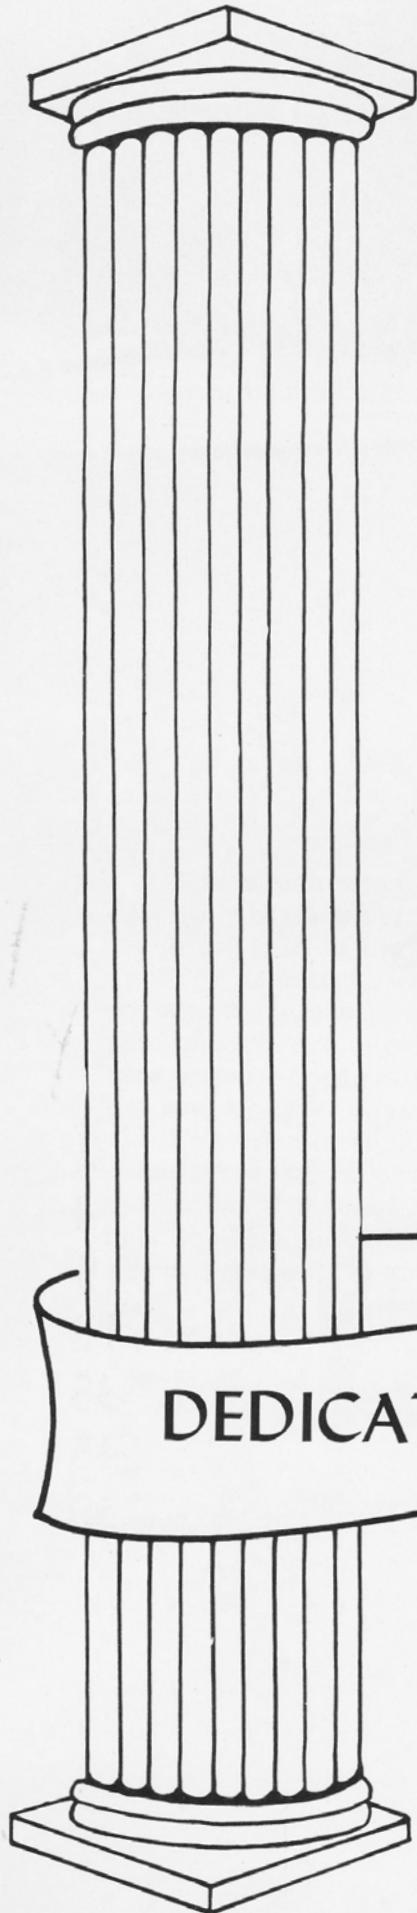

The architect, with his blue prints, must plan the project step by step, making important decisions according to raw material, style, and dimensions. The stonemasons place each block carefully, one upon the other. The electricians, plumbers, and carpenters, experienced craftsmen, complete the circuitry, tighten the faulty pipes, and smoothe the rough edges, completing the building project.

The completed structure stands for all to see. The walls must be strong enough to contain the years of accumulated knowledge and the windows must let in the light. The roof must withstand the elements and protect the contents of the building. There must be a strong foundation, so that it will stand the test of time and constant use and remain a proud possession and a monument to learning.

DEDICATION

We, the class of 1966, have chosen to dedicate this publication to Robert W. Linzey, for many years the Senior Class sponsor. He has been a constant inspiration, a living ideal, a wise counselor, and a friend in need.

He has been the architect, stonemason, electrician and carpenter who has shaped us, the graduating class, into candidates for tomorrow's leadership.
