Virginia School For The Deaf And The Blind

1991

Student Center - 1991

The Student Center for the Virginia School for the Deaf and the Blind in Harrison Hall opened in September 1991. It looks like a restaurant in the 1950's. It has a big screen television, a pool table, a stereo system, two pin ball machines for students to play games or watch movies on television. They can also listen to the music from the stereo system for their pleasure.

The Student Center is for all the blind, deaf students, and houseparents. It is nice for us because it is more fun than just staying in the dorm.
